THE BEST-DRESSED MAN

A man who has been voted best-dressed for two years by one of the web's biggest fashion communities has revealed he only spends $40 (£31.70) on clothes each week.

Joseph Knowles is a student from Vancouver and has taken the crown of best-dressed man for the second year. Knowles, in his early 20s, regularly uploads images of his outfits in a thread called "What are you wearing today?. He's undoubtedly a photogenic man with a physique that wears clothes well, and his photos are good quality and well-composed, but it's not just his skill at putting together outfits that has impressed other users - Knowles has a real ability for creating stylish looks on a budget. His secret? Charity shops. "I buy almost exclusively used clothing from no-name brands and tailor my own stuff".

He shops at least twice a week and takes the time to look through every item in each shop, including the women's sections and he believes the prints, patterns and fabrics are more interesting than men's clothing. Knowles has become an expert charity store shopper and can now find the pieces worth considering simply by running his hand over the rail.

But it's not only buying second-hand clothes that leaves Knowles looking so stylish - he makes everything himself. After buying a sewing machine (at a charity shop, naturally), Knowles turned to YouTube to learn how to use it, destroying "at least ten to 15 pairs" of trousers before successfully creating anything wearable.

Currently applying to do a Masters in Physiotherapy, Knowles spends his free time writing, styling and doing photography.

For a while, he followed the Reddit thread without posting anything, and it was only before going on a date one evening that he decided to upload a snap of his outfit. It was "just to see if I was doing something right, if I was doing something wrong," he says. "The community in general was great at giving feedback. It was a great learning point." And it appears the student has become the master.

26. Joseph Knowles won once a prize because of his clothes. _____

27. Joseph Knowles wears only designer clothes. _____

28. He finds interesting clothes by careful search through the charity shops. _____

29. He mastered the sewing machine immediately after buying it. _____

30. His success on the Internet was purely accidental. _____
